GENESIS 1:1-2:3

In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth. There was only darkness before He formed the earth, so God said, "Let there be light." After God spoke, there was light. God separated the light from the darkness. He called the light day, and He called the darkness night. This was the first day of His creation.

On the second day God said, "Let the waters separate," and the waters spread apart. God called the space in between the waters sky.

On day three God said, "Let the water be gathered into one place and let dry land appear." God called the dry land earth, and He called the water seas. On this day all kinds of plants, trees, fruits and vegetables began to grow on the earth. God saw that it was good.

On day four God said, "Let there be lights in the sky to separate the day from the night and to provide light for the earth." God made the sun to shine during the day and the moon and stars to shine at night. God saw that it was good.

The next day God spoke and made large sea creatures, fish, and birds. Immediately, creatures filled the seas, and birds filled the sky. God saw that it was good. That was the fifth day.

On day six God said, "Let the earth be filled with animals," and livestock and creatures filled the earth. God saw that it was good. God said, "Let Us make man in Our image. They will rule the fish of the sea, the birds of the sky, and every creature on the earth." So God created man in His own image. He created a man and a woman. God saw that all He had created was very good.

By the seventh day God had completed His work. The heavens and the earth and everything in them were created. God declared the seventh day as holy, and He rested from His work.
